The couple's nephew carried a ring pillow used in Bryan's parents' wedding in 1965. Carolyn and Bryan added their own handmade touch, wedding date to it.
Since the craft-beer-loving couple married at a Girl Scout camp, they decided to do a beer and Girl Scout cookie pairing during their cocktail hour. They picked out specific beers for three different cookies, and these were passed around to guests as a way of sharing some of Carolyn and Bryan's favorite brews.
THEIR STORY

BRIDE Carolyn Bauer, 29, works in marketing. GROOM Bryan Goletz, 30, works in marketing. HOW THEY MET At a bar in New York City. WEDDING STYLE Carolyn and Bryan wanted one big party with all their closest family and friends, while also incorporating their favorite things, camping and craft breweries. —KR

The couple focused on their relationship as the inspiration for their wedding. Personal touches appeared throughout the day, from their secular vows to the Willie Nelson songs that acted as the soundtrack for their trips up and down the aisle, plus the beer-garden-inspired pretzel and cheese baskets at every table.
Carolyne and Bryan chose “Love You Till the Cows Come Home” by Billy Joe Shaver as their first dance song. “We knew it would be uncharacteristic of us to have a slow song, so this was a perfect way to set the tone of the wedding so that all of our guests could get ready for a fun night of dancing,” the bride says.

Carolyn and her mother collected vintage tasting glasses in the months prior to the wedding.
